European Championships 2022

Due to the low number of teams that have been able to commit to attending the upcoming EC2022 in Great Ecclestone, UK the ETPC feel that a meaningful competition to decide the European Champions for 2022 is not possible. To that effect it will mean that there will be no traditional EC possible in 2022.

Great Ecclestone is one of the original European venues for tractor pulling with a long history of top level competition and as such is key to the future of European tractor pulling. There have been intensive discussions over the last 48 hours to formulate an alternative event format for the venue over the weekend 26-28th August 2022 to maintain this tradition and spectacle.

We are pleased to announce that the “Mitas Euro Challenge” for all classes that would have competed at the EC2022 is now being arranged with the full support of the ETPC and the British Tractor Pullers Association (BTPA) in collaboration with the promoter the North West Tractor Pulling Club (NWTPC). This mixed with the British classes that are also running over the weekend promises to provide a top level event at Great Ecclestone, UK for ‘The World’s Most Powerful Motorsport’.

Please check the normal social media channels for further information on the event format and programme schedule in the coming days.
